ENVOY IS GIVEN HIS PASSPORTS; RELATIONS END?

Ultimatum and Request for Immediate Reply Go to Washington.

WILSON PLAN FLOUTED

Huerta Issues Demand After Rejection of Lind's Proposals.

ONE HOUR NOTICE GIVEN

Minister of the Interior Is Mouthpiece for Mexican Government and Declares Federals Would Take Up Arms Against Foreign Power That Would Attempt to Make Peace Between Rival Factions in Republic.

DENY MEXICAN STORY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 19.—Special to Telegraph—Nelson O'Shaughnessy, chargé d'affaires at the American embassy in Mexico City, cabled Bryan from the Mexican capital today saying that President Huerta of Mexico, through his minister, Gamboa, denied that there were "foundations whatever" for the statement that Huerta has issued an ultimatum to the United States government demanding recognition with the alternative of handing O'Shaughnessy his passports.

Lind Sends Word.

A dispatch from ex-Governor John Lind informed President Woodrow Wilson and Secretary of State Bryan that he had been in conference with President Huerta today and says his reception was most cordial.

Washington, Aug. 19.—Joseph Tully, secretary to the president, returning to the White House from Secretary Bryan's home early this morning, stated that unofficial, but satisfactory advice had been received confirming the Huerta ultimatum, and that Charge d'Affaires O'Shaughnessy had been given his passports. The information was conveyed that the Mexican populace had not been apprised of Huerta's action. The American representative has been given forty-eight hours to leave the Mexican capital.

Mexico City, Aug. 19.—Not long before midnight Provisional President Huerta notified the American embassy that his administration must be officially recognized, and not later than midnight.

The government is not specific in the public announcement as to what course then will be pursued, but it is understood that it means the severing of all relations between the two countries.

Senor Urrutia, minister of the interior, who on previous occasions has been the spokesman for the administration, was the person chosen to make the announcement.

Senor Urrutia refused to give out the text of the correspondence that has passed between John Lind and the Mexican government, but confirmed the fact that an exchange of notes had taken place.

Two Notes to Washington. Two notes from Mexico have been forwarded to Washington. The first was a reply to that delivered by Mr. Lind. It refused mediation in the Mexican situation or any similar suggestion by a foreign government. This note included the demand for recognition of Mexico.

The second note was sent direct to Washington and demanded that a reply to the previous note be made before midnight.

This is regarded here as an ultimatum. One official in discussing this latter note said that Mexico had reached the point where it either must bow its head in humiliation before the United States or adopt an attitude of defiance. The first contingency, he added, was regarded as impossible.

"War, if Necessary." "If this means war," said Urrutia, after making his announcement, "well and good. We will meet the issue we have raised. The die is cast. The national dignity and honor of Mexico demanded such action. We are willing to abide by the results. The matter

M'KENZIE WILL SEEK RE-ELECTION

THE POPULAR REPUBLICAN CONGRESSMAN TO RUN AGAIN, SAYS TRIBUNE.

In commenting upon the activities of several of the republican congressmen in the state who failed to be elected last fall and who are to again seek vindication at the coming election the Chicago Tribune states that Hon. John C. McKenzie, one of the republicans returned to congress, will be a candidate in the 13th district.

Congressman McKenzie has many friends in this district and the announcement that he intends to run as a candidate comes as good news to them.

ARE REMODELING ROSBROOK HALL

ROOMS AT FRONT OF HALL BEING REMOVED—BUILD GALLERY.

Workmen will this week commence extensive improvements to the interior of Rosbrook hall which will when completed, make the hall even more popular than before. The partition at the front of the hall is being torn out, giving open ventilation on three sides, and a gallery will be built. Opera seats will be installed throughout the hall.

STARS WILL GO TO OREGON SATURDAY

The Dixon Stars will go to Oregon Saturday, where they play the fast town team that afternoon. In all probability they will play the Ottawa team at Ottawa Sunday.

was taken up at a cabinet meeting and this decision was reached.

"Mexico must take the stand that no intervention or intermeddling in international politics or affairs can be permitted from outside governments. If the United States cares to stand aside and look on no hostile move will be made by Mexico."

Senor Urrutia indicated that the matter had been considered calmly and the government had determined a firm stand must be taken and the results be abided by, no matter what the cost.

In Doubt on Charge.

It is understood the government has not fully determined that failure to answer will mean that Mr. O'Shaughnessy, American chargé d'affaires, will be handed his passport, but practically the same effect will be produced by suspending communication between the two governments.

The text of the reply is not given out here. Government officials said that the Mexican public probably would not be informed about the grave international crisis until four o'clock today. If no reply is received in the meantime it is understood the whole incident will be given to the local press for immediate publication.

Warns of Intervention.

President Huerta's reply to President Wilson's proposals embodied in the first note sent to Washington, told the United States that he would tolerate no interference, even though that interference might be characterized as friendly mediation.

All those connected with the American embassy refused to admit the receipt of the notes and that it had been sent was not admitted by the Mexican government until the official announcement last night.

President Huerta's failure to live up to what was regarded as the spirit of his recent note, in which he said Mr. Lind would be regarded as persona non grata if he did not bring to Mexico the proper credentials, together with recognition of the republic by the United States, had caused the public to believe there was a possibility that he intended to receive with favor, in part at least, the suggestion of the Washington administration.

Reception Mere Courtesy.

It appears, however, that the Mexican government's unofficial reception of Mr. Lind by Minister of Foreign Affairs Gamboa and the acceptance by the foreign secretary of Mr. Lind's preliminary note was merely a example of international courtesy, due, perhaps, to a desire of President Huerta to make clear his record in developing events.

Those most intimate with Huerta expressed no surprise in declaring that, in their opinion, Huerta had voiced his sentiments fully and unalterably when he stated publicly more than a week ago that he would brook no interference in the work of pacifying Mexico.

LIGHTNING KILLED SICK POLO RESIDENT

ILL WITH TYPHOID FEVER—DIED FOLLOWING ELECTRICAL SHOCK.

Polo, Aug. 18.—John Heitzman, a real estate dealer of this city and a resident here for a number of years, died at his home on Saturday afternoon as a direct result of a stroke of lightning.

Heitzman had been confined to his home for a number of weeks with typhoid fever. Recently he began to recover and was gaining rapidly. On account of the extremely hot weather his bed was pulled close to a window. On Friday evening a severe electrical storm was in progress and a tree near the house was struck. The flash of lightning directly affected Mr. Heitzman for he was found unconscious several minutes later by members of the home. He never regained consciousness and died Saturday afternoon.

CHICKEN HUNTERS BEING LOOKED FOR

LAWLESS HUNTERS ARE BEING WATCHED BY AUTHORITIES IN LEE.

Local officers have been notified that hunters are violating the state law by shooting prairie chickens, on which the season is not open and accordingly word has been sent to all policemen and deputy sheriffs in the county asking that a sharp watch be kept for these hunters.

The law provides that chickens can only be shot between Nov. 11 and Nov. 24, and an effort will be made to apprehend and punish hunters who violate this provision.

GORN IS MUCH BETTER HERE THAN ELSEWHERE

LEE COUNTY FARMERS WILL NOT GET AVERAGE YIELD, BUT IT MIGHT BE WORSE.

Farmers residing in this vicinity, while not anticipating an average corn crop, are optimistic that the yield here will be greater than in the central or southern parts of the state. While much of the corn was too far advanced to be greatly benefited by the recent copious rains, there is a great deal of it in such a condition that the moisture will result in a fair yield.

RACERS STOP HERE.

Two low rakish racing automobiles, an Apperson and a National, driven by Krinell and Gardner, professional automobile racers from Chicago, were in Dixon for an hour today while the drivers secured supplies and ate dinner. The cars, which will race at Rock Island next week, were the objects of a great deal of inspection by the curious.

INSTALL MACHINERY.

Emil Krug returned yesterday from Logan, Utah, where he has been engaged for some time in installing a gas plant and other machinery for the Borden Milk company. He leaves tomorrow for Ingersoll, Canada, on a similar mission.

PROMINENT STERLING

LADY IS KILLED

Sterling, Aug. 19.—Special to Telegraph—Mrs. Theodore Mack, one of the oldest pioneers of Whiteside county, killed herself when she opened a door and stepped down the cellar stairs, mistaking the cellar door for the bath room door in the dark last night. She fractured her skull. Mrs. Mack was the widow of the founder of the Sterling Standard. She came to Whiteside county when a little girl, in 1839, and has lived in Sterling since 1859. Funeral arrangements will not be made until a son in the east has been heard from.

ROAD COMMITTEE MEETS TOMORROW

SUPERVISORS WILL PROBABLY TAKE A TRIP OVER THE ROADS.

CONSIDERABLE CONTENTION Some Townships Will Be Ignored Because of Past Disregard for Road Conditions.

The state aid roads committee of the board of supervisors will meet at the court house tomorrow to consider the scheme of road improvement which has been mapped out by the Amboy and Dixon Commercial clubs, the map of which was recently published in the Telegraph. Considerable discussion is bound to arise and some stirring times will be experienced by the committee and the board before a final agreement is reached. Naturally every township in the county is after some state aid and therein will lie the bone of contention.

For several of the members of the committee and other members of the board are emphatic in their statements that townships that have done absolutely nothing in the way of building hard roads are not entitled to state aid until those townships that have expended a great deal of money on their roads are taken care of. It is said by several members of the committee that there are several townships in Lee county in which no effort has been made by the people to improve their roads, and the members of the committee state that it would be manifestly unfair to expect the entire county and the state to do for them what other towns have done for themselves.

It is probable that the members of the committee will tomorrow decide to take a trip over all the roads marked for improvement, thereby getting a personal knowledge of all conditions which will enable them to make a much better report to the board at its meeting in September.

WILL WOODMEN MOVE OFFICES TO INDIANAPOLIS?

Moline Dispatch: Hints that the offices of the Modern Woodmen of America would be moved to Indianapolis should the board of review decide that the reserve fund is subject to taxation on the strength of Harry McCaskrin's petition were made yesterday by Truman Plantz of Warsaw, counsel for the Woodmen society.

McCaskrin's argument was based on decisions of the supreme court. A point raised to the effect that if the reserve fund is found to be taxable, the tax should be levied in Livingston county, where the head banker resides, was questioned by McCaskrin, who was emphatic in his assertion that Rock Island county should have the benefit of taxes on the reserve fund.

Mr. Plantz further stated that the city of Indianapolis had made the Woodmen an offer to furnish a building for its use as headquarters as an inducement to have the head offices established there, and intimated that the invitation would surely be accepted if the board ruled in favor of McCaskrin.

Mrs. P. E. Cowles of Kenosha, Wis., is spending a couple of weeks with friends and relatives in this city.

STATE IS BANKRUPT.

According to statements appearing in the press, the state of Illinois is bankrupt. This state of financial stress became public when the state sought to make purchases and asked extension of credit until after the collection of taxes next spring. When Dunne spoke in Germania hall in Freeport in the campaign last fall, he criticized without stint the extravagance as he called it, of the republican administration, and today the democratic governor has the unpleasant reflection that his first legislature far exceeded for many years the prodigality of the use of the people's money. And now the state is bankrupt.—Freeport Journal.

Mrs. E. P. Stevens, who has been visiting relatives here, returned to her home in Chicago this morning accompanied by her sister, Miss Hannah Dougherty of this city.

CAL FREEZER AMAZED AT BOYS OF TODAY

Mt. Carroll Democrat: Boys ain't like they used to be. Three young hopefuls carrying a watermelon asked everybody in sight for a knife to carve the fruit. It's a safe bet that not one of them ever visited a melon patch unbeknownst to the owner, selected the largest and juiciest and retreating to a safe place, cracked the melon on a rock to dig out the heart and smear it east and west over his whole countenance. A knife to cut a watermelon! The very idea! Next thing the boys will be asking for napkins and finger bowls.

CONVICT CAUGHT

Harry Cassel, the Hennepin bank robber who escaped three months ago from the Putnam county jail, was captured last week at St. Louis and has been returned to Putnam county to await the action of the October grand jury.

Cassel in February attempted to rob the bank at Hennepin and wounded the cashier in trying to get at the funds. He was captured on an island in the Illinois river by Sheriff Cofoid after a running fight in which a number of shots were exchanged.

Cassel and another prisoner, Leonard Pasquall, broke out of jail at Hennepin in May with the aid of tools supplied from an outside party. They made their way to St. Louis walking most of the distance and secured employment. Cassel was known as Henry Smith at St. Louis. He was about to draw his pay and leave for other parts when Sheriff Cofoid arrived a few days ago and placed him under arrest. Pasquall evaded the sheriff and is still at liberty.

Since the jail delivery at Hennepin the sheriff of Putnam county has been constantly on the alert to recapture the escaped prisoners. He followed numerous clues and made frequent journeys out of the county on tips received from the police of various cities. When Ringling Brothers' circus was in LaSalle he made a thorough search of the tents, having received information that the two fugitives were with the show.

Sheriff Cofoid is said to be negotiating with Sheriff Beyer to house the prisoner until the grand jury meets in October as it is felt that the Putnam county jail is not secure enough to house such a desperate criminal as Cassel has proved to be.

My face was yellow, even my fingernails were colorless and I had displacement. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and now I am stout, well and healthy. I can do all my own work and can walk to town and back not get tired. I would not give your Vegetable Compound for all the rest of the medicines in the world. Another Case.

Nebo, Ill.—"I was bothered for ten years with female troubles and the doctors did not help me. I was so weak and nervous that I could not do my work and every month I had to spend a few days in bed. I read so many letters about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound curing female troubles that I got a bottle of it. It did me more good than anything else I ever took and now it has cured me. I feel better than I have for years and tell everybody what the Compound has done for me. I believe I would not be living to-day but for that."—MRS. HETTIE GREENSTREET, Nebo, Illinois.

"What's the matter here?" asked the customer after apples. "There are no big apples on the top of this barrel!"

"I'll tell you about that," replied the dealer; "when I got the barrel packed with small apples there wasn't any room on the top for any big ones."

"So you will agree that women have greater powers of persuasion than men?"

"Yes, Henrietta," replied Mr. Mockton. "No man could go out and buy five or six hundred dollars' worth of silk hats and suits of clothes and satisfy his wife with the explanation that he wanted to make himself more attractive in her eyes."

WOMAN'S ADVANTAGE IN LIFE

British Physicians of Prominence Give Some Figures That Explain Disparity Between the Sexes.

Though doctors have long realized that, thanks to a better knowledge of sanitation and personal hygiene, people are living longer than formerly, the much greater relative longevity of women as shown in the recently published British national debt office's report on the mortality of government life annuitants has come as a general surprise.

In a summary of these figures it was shown that the expectation of life of a woman of fifty is now more than a year greater than it was in 1875, while that of a man of the same age is only three months greater.

Discussing the reasons of our increasing longevity and in particular woman's stronger hold on life, physicians at St. Bartholomew's hospital advanced widely different theories. "The essential cause of death," one stated, "is a wearing out from overwork of our brain cells. Women may be just as brainy as men, but they do not work their brain cells as vigorously or as continuously as do their male relatives. If they did there would not be so great a disparity in the length of life of the two sexes."

Another consultant puts down woman's greater expectation of life to the more sheltered existence she leads, and the lack of the physically depressing competition which is part of nearly every man's life. "A woman may have hard work to do," he explained, "but except for the few who work in offices or who follow professions, they work in their own homes, and at a pace they set for themselves. The home is also, as a rule, vastly more airy, sunny and generally more wholesome than is her husband's shop or office."

"Information" Added Little to the Small Amount of Knowledge Young Matrons Possessed.

Two young matrons, who are sisters, keep house in their old family homestead in Kansas City, Kan. Recently their cook left them. While neither had had much experience in cooking, yet they decided to take charge of the kitchen. They bought three cook books. For Sunday evening lunch it was determined to have sauerkraut and spare ribs. Several friends were asked in.

The kraut and ribs were put on the fire to boil. Suddenly it occurred to one of the "cooks" that she did not know how long the combination should cook. She asked her sister. She didn't know. They consulted the cook books. Each gave this instruction: "Cook until done." They were in despair. One of the husbands happened to drop into the kitchen. He saw that something was wrong. He asked, and was told.

"That ought to be easy to find out," he said. He stepped to the telephone and called: "Information, please."

In a moment a gentle voice came over the wire: "This is information. What is it, please?"

"Information, can you tell me how long sauerkraut and spareribs should boil?"

Without a moment's hesitation the silver voice replied, "Certainly. Cook until they are done."—Kansas City Star.

He Wouldn't Tell.

The eminent Doctor Llorente, physician to the royal family of Spain, told a reporter in New York recently that he thinks the American woman is spoiled.

"In my own country," said Doctor Llorente, "a woman is content to be queen of her household, but here woman wants to be both king and queen."

The doctor, smiling, continued: "I was surprised to hear that in some cases the American husband has, actually, to conceal the condition of his finances from his wife in order to curb her extravagances. Thus the rich young wife's complaint to her doctor, a friend of mine in New York, would be impossible in Spain, where married people are happy companions. "It is so ridiculous," pouted my friend's young patient, to call the man at the bank a 'teller.' Why, he won't tell you anything. I asked one the other day how much money my husband had on deposit and he just laughed at me."

Mighty Sore Whenever He Remembered How Old Man Asked Him if He Could Support Girl.

"I see that your wife's father and mother are living with you now."

"Yes."

"The old gentleman has permanently retired from business, has he?"

"Retired? That's hardly the name for it. He has been kicked out."

"I'm sorry to hear that. Didn't he have anything saved up to keep him and his wife in their old age?"

"Not a cent. I'll have to support them the rest of their lives."

"Well, it's lucky that you are able to do so."

"It may be lucky enough, but there's one thing that makes me mighty sore whenever I think of it."

"What's that?"

"The lofty way in which the old man asked me, when I told him I wanted to marry his daughter, if I thought I would be able to support her in the style to which she had been accustomed."

To Save Alcott Home.

Efforts are being made to inaugurate a movement for the preservation of the old Alcott homestead in Concord, Mass., where Bronson Alcott lived and died and where Louisa Alcott created the immortal children that run through the pages of "Little Men" and "Little Women." The place at present is fast falling into hopeless decay and action must be started soon if it is to be preserved at all. "Perhaps if Miss Alcott had been dead two centuries instead of only about 30 years her former home would not be in such a dangerous plight as it is today," said a New York woman who is trying to interest others in its preservation. "But by and by Miss Alcott will have been dead 200 years and if Orchard house is not saved now American soil in future generations will be the poorer for our neglect. We never shall raise a harvest of ancient associations for our land unless we take care of the associations while they still are comparatively modern."

Bread Cake.

One large cup of dough, after the first rising one cup of sugar, one-half cup of butter, two eggs, one-half teaspoon of soda dissolved in a tablespoon of hot water, nutmeg, cinnamon, one-half teaspoon of each, one cup of raisins, one-half cup of currants. Melt the butter and work with the hand into the dough until well mixed together. Add the sugar and mix well. Add the eggs, well beaten, and beat the whole mixture thoroughly. Now add the dissolved soda, stir again well, add spices, raisins and currants and beat again thoroughly. This is a delicious cake, although it takes some little time to make it. The Gymnasium Class

"Honestly," exclaimed Miss Beck, in a tone of disgust, "if I looked like that I'd refrain from this sort of work and wear kimonos the rest of my life!"

The other girls looked where she pointed and beheld a woman of undecided years hanging from the stall bars, in an earnest endeavor to cast off, or at least redistribute, some of her superfluous avoidups.

"Oh, I don't think she so bad," said Miss Short, anxiously glancing down at her own lower extremities and making a mental comparison. "Of course she's too fat, but she's well proportioned, I think!" and she felt her arm, near the shoulder, with an imperceptible sigh of relief to find that it, too, was proportioned to her other limbs.

"I do hope," sighed Miss Barclay, in a tone of perfect content with herself, "that this work won't decrease my weight." Then she cast an appreciative eye over her own plump charms. "Well, all I can say," returned Miss Beck, as at a personal affront, as she peered down, trying to catch a glimpse of her own sylph-like legs—completely hidden by the voluminous folds of black bloomers unless she put one forward purposely—"is that it's lots easier to add than to take away, and as for as I'm concerned I'd hate to see myself in a position where I couldn't wear the present styles with any degree of comfort!"

"Say, just look over in the corner. See that girl—or woman, I suppose she is—catching the ball! Did you ever in your life behold any one quite so much higher in one shoulder than the other?" Miss Beck spoke.

"No one except yourself," replied Miss Short unfeelingly. "The director was saying last week that you'd need a seven year course to get you straightened up from side to side."

"I'm glad it's my shoulders instead of my hips, at any rate," retorted Miss Barclay, maliciously glancing at her tormentor's slightly unmetrical proportions.

"Well," said Miss Garvin tranquilly, "I'm waiting to be told of my chief deformity. Or must I wait until I've been here a while longer?" She viewed the mirrored image of her perfections with calm approval. "While you people are striving to get back to normal I'll be so far ahead of you in the graceful art that I'll be talking only the sign language. It's too bad that my friends are mostly deformed and crippled!" and she dexterously caught a ball that came whizzing her way.

"No, dearest," cooed Miss Beck, "you aren't as perfect as you think. But you don't learn of your imperfections until you've had a few lessons. It took me three before I was informed that I had one shoulder too high, one hip too large and a bad case of swayback! You're a mere kindergarten at it, and, of course, you can't yet understand! But you'll learn. So contrive to be happy, dear, until you have come to earth! You are young and you are beautiful, but you may be knocked-kneed or pigeon-toed or bowlegged or even swayback, for all you know. It isn't my place to inform you, but you'll be informed in due season." She gave Miss Garvin a look of compassionate pity!

"Well, at any rate, if I am all those things, I won't advertise it by wearing silk stockings," exclaimed Miss Garvin. "See that young thing—she can't be more than forty—over there hanging on those rings that are fastened to the ceiling? I'll offer a special prize to any one telling me just where her ankles are—that is, where her calves and her feet are joined! I'll be blessed if I can tell!" She extended a well turned ankle, deliberately, before the others. "I may as well own that that's my one pride and glory," she confessed, shamelessly. "I may be fat or thin, straight or stoop shouldered."

"Class in line!" ordered the director, and the girls hastened to their places.

"The third girl there!" The director pointed at Miss Garvin. "Please extend your ankle when you mark time! One would think you were a hundred years old, the way you land on your heels! I wish I could make this class understand! For beauty of ankle you simply have got to extend it at every step—that gives it suppleness. If you'd do that—to Miss Garvin—you'd soon see a vast improvement in that stockiness you have! Forward, march!"

No More Chamols Skins.

"Chamols skins? No, madam, we have none," said the truthful druggist. "But what are those in the window?" demanded the woman. "Kid skins," replied the druggist. "They are sold as chamols, but they are not. I doubt if you can find a chamol skin in New York outside a museum. There are not enough chamols left in all Europe to supply New York for one day. They are being exterminated as the American buffalo was. They are now rigidly protected by game laws and are only shot during the open season by the sportsmen. Will you take a kid skin? Yes, madam, you will find it just as good, but it isn't chamols."

The Rush of Business

"Oh, I never will get this Christmas list made out!" said the little stenographer, impatiently, as she hastily threw her notebook into a drawer and grabbed materials to answer the buzzer that was getting frantic. "This is the 'steenth time I've barely got it started when some one wants to write his friend that he enjoyed the dinner he took with him yesterday or wishes to inform some one whom he never saw and never will see that he received his valued favor—which he never even read through—but though he can do absolutely nothing for him he begs, most ardently, to remind him that—and so on! Huh! Talk about women gushing!"

The bookkeeper turned an appreciative countenance toward her and prepared to listen.

"Oh, buzz on!" she exclaimed crossly, as the summons became still more imperative. "I'm engaged for a while yet!" And she snapped a rubbed band across the buzzer to deaden the noise.

"Actually, there aren't ten letters a day that are absolutely necessary," she declared. "There's a lot of folderol, that passes back and forth, and gets filed as business, though it is simple waste of time and postage. When the men receive the letters they realize what rubbish they are and laugh at them. But when they get started dictating they like the sound of their own voices!"

"Why," and she gave her notebook an angry fling, "this thing here, I warrant, has about one page in ten filled with business that needed to be transacted! The rest is gush and affection! And yet the men pride themselves on their quickness and their lack of red tape and their ability to cope with big situations. And you won't find one man in a dozen who doesn't make supercilious remarks about detail and say that he hasn't time to attend to that—that's what he keeps clerks for!"

"I heard Mr. Brown this morning tell his wife over the phone that he simply couldn't get home to her luncheon, he was so busy—his desk was simply piled with work. He was very sorry, but business had to come before pleasure and she'd please make his excuses to the guests and so on—all that rot."

"Well, I expected a busy day when I heard that and so I prepared for rapid dictation. Well, what did I get? To one man he wrote that the matter was on his desk and as soon as he had time he'd look it over and write him in detail, which he begged leave to trust was satisfactory! And to another he wrote that business, as he very likely knew, wasn't what it might be, and therefore he wouldn't be able to go into the matter, but he might in some months' time—perhaps—with which he trusted he might sign himself very sincerely! And to another that he was in doubt as to the advisability of taking out such and such a paper, just at present, but after due consideration he would write him further, and he desired, with great gusto, to subscribe himself his obliged friend. And so on through the whole list! Why, there wasn't a letter that couldn't have been done away with altogether, let alone being put off until after his wife's luncheon!"

"But all those letters made him think he was a very busy man and I've no doubt that he thinks he's indispensable to the company!"

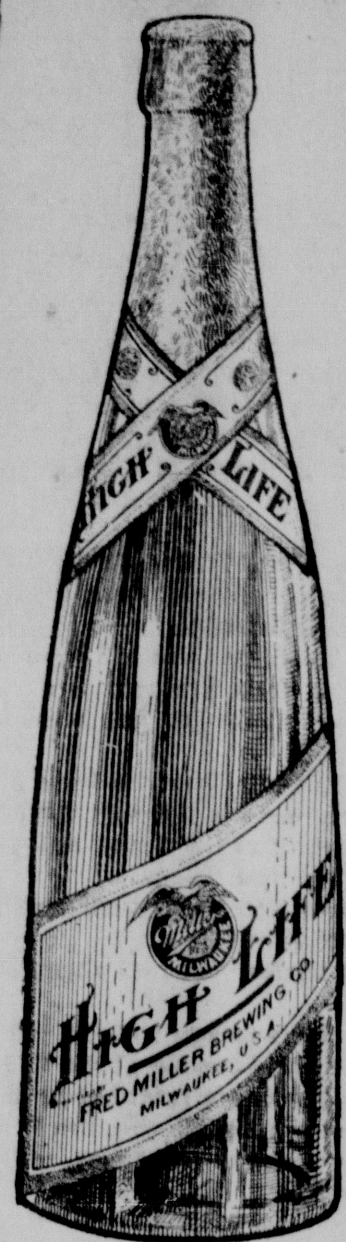

"Some day I'm going to run off a lot of form letters, saying that I'm very sorry, but I haven't yet had time to look into the matter, but will write further when time permits. I think it makes the men feel good to tell people they are too busy to think. Perhaps it might be well for me to offer my services as thinker for them!"

"They all know that they'll decide against whatever matter it is that keeps pending! It's a hypocritical attitude, to say the least. They pretend to themselves that they're busy. They pretend to the man to whom they write that the matter really interests them and that they're really going to discuss it, and think it over, when they know they aren't even going to look at it again! And they pretend to the company that they're doing business eight hours a day! And then they'll go home and pretend to their wives that they've had a hard day!"

"Oh, I've known too much of them ever to marry one of them! Marriage is purely a confidence game, as I see it, and when you lose confidence—or start in without any—marriage is sure to be a failure!"

"Yes, yes, I'm coming as fast as I can!" She moved toward the door. Then she turned a smiling countenance to the bookkeeper.

"Here," she said, good naturedly, "just remember that what I said was all hasty. Perhaps those men do a lot of pretending, but if you listen carefully you'll hear my own sweet voice telling Mr. Jacobs, in one more minute, how extremely sorry I am that I was delayed and that it was unavoidable! And, do you know, I'd be fearfully angry if they dared intimate to me that I didn't earn my salary or that I wasted a lot of valuable time just hearing myself talk!"

Washington, Aug. 19.—Dispatches from Mexico City to the press stating that the United States government was given until midnight to recognize the Huerta government created a great commotion in administration circles. The president, Bryan and other high officials of the administration had retired when the alarming news was taken off the wire.

The gravity of the situation caused Secretary Tumulty to get Secretary Bryan out of bed, and connection immediately was established with the state department, where operators are on duty all night to receive messages. As a result of this activity, it was stated subsequently that the state department had received no message from Mexico embracing the news contained in the bulletin.

Secretary Tumulty stated that the last cablegram from Charge d'Affaires O'Shaughnessy in Mexico City, received at ten p. m., contained not the slightest intimation that Huerta had assumed the attitude indicated. As to other matters bearing on the situation, not a word would he say.

Gravity Is Recognized.

While it is regarded here as almost unbelievable that Huerta would go to the extreme reported in reply to the presentation of a proposition of this government for the settlement of the troublesome situation in Mexico, there is no disposition to minimize the seriousness of the aspect of the case, provided Huerta has responded to the friendly attitude of this government with a demand that this government shall forthwith recognize his government.

It is regarded as possible that Huerta has replied to the communication submitted by Mr. Lind with a response conditioned upon the recognition of his government, and it is considered possible that he may have placed a time limit upon such recognition. That would not be a frightfully serious matter, but if the demand for recognition is not based upon any such conditions, but is issued as an "ultimatum," the situation assumes the gravest aspect.

A demand from Huerta, without condition, that his government be recognized by the United States immediately would, should his demand not be complied with, indicate he will sever all diplomatic relations with this country at the expiration of the period set by him—that is, he will refuse longer to countenance America's representatives at the Mexican capital.

Such action, with thousands of American citizens in Mexico, would bring matters to a crisis indeed. It undoubtedly would call for the most drastic and dreaded action on the part of this government.

Ready to Reiterate Stand.

In view of the rejection of the suggestions contained in the communication presented by Mr. Lind, its publication today was considered, would constitute a reiteration before the world of President Wilson's ideas as to a constitutional government in Latin America.

In all likelihood, even without the developments of last night in Mexico City, the day's events would have meant the end of any dealings with the Huerta officials.

The position taken by administration officials last night was that the United States had done all that a friendly neighbor could do without actually using force. They pointed out that from the beginning of the trouble in Mexico the United States had but two alternatives—friendly mediation or armed intervention.

All Against Intervention.

No sentiment has existed in this country to justify intervention or a war, they said, and no foreign government could insist on the sacrifice by the United States of thousands of lives and gigantic financial burdens merely to adjust an internal dispute in which the United States was not directly a party—and over which it could have no jurisdiction without infringing on the sovereignty of another republic which it is by treaty obliged to maintain.

The only interest, it was pointed out, that the United States could have in Mexico was the protection of lives and property. Financial losses can be met by indemnities, it is believed here, and lives can best be protected by the withdrawal of Americans from the danger zone. To this end officials are considering the removal of Americans and the payment of transportation for the destitute.

CONFERS WITH HIS MOTHER

New York Officials Issue Warrant for Conspiracy, Hoping to Extradite
Fugitive — Accomplices Are Near Arrest.

New York, Aug. 19.—No definite trace has been uncovered as to the hiding place of Harry K. Thaw who on Sunday escaped from the Matteawan insane asylum. A clue, which is the most promising, is that Thaw has taken refuge in the New Jersey State hospital at Morris Plains.

Dr. Britton D. Evans, head of the Morris Plains hospital and alienist who testified in behalf of Thaw at his trials for murder, visited the fugitive's mother in the Hotel Gotham. Later he talked at length with reporters and left them, despite his refusal to answer questions directly, with the impression that he knew the whereabouts and plans of Thaw and probably had seen him in the course of the day.

New York, Aug. 19.—Harry K. Thaw has now had three days of freedom, and the police of the United States and Canada had not picked up his trail. They seek him now not as the slayer of Stanford White or as an escaped lunatic, but on a warrant issued in the supreme court at Poughkeepsie charging him with conspiring with the aged keeper, Howard H. Barnum, and the five men who managed the asylum delivery.

Mother Hears From Him.

Thaw's seclusion is absolute. Out of the cloud of dust which swirled in the wake of the black automobile bearing him and his liberators from Matteawan Sunday morning nothing tangible has come except a laconic letter from Thaw himself, assuring his aged mother in New York that he desired rest and would, in due time, join her at the Thaw country place, Elmhurst, at Cresson, Pa. In obedience to this plan, Mrs. Thaw purposes to start for Cresson today.

Due in Pittsburgh Today.

Pittsburgh expects the appearance of Thaw there today, according to one story, which adds that by being there before them he may be able to obtain for himself nearly half a million dollars, forming one of the bequests in his father's will. This is cited in some quarters as the reason for Thaw's escape at this time.

Wires Threat to Evelyn.

Evelyn Nesbit Thaw received the following telegram:
"Bridgeport, Conn., Aug. 19.—I want you to have that name taken off the theater at once. You realize your mistake."
H. K. T.

Thaw's wife's eyes blazed as she read it. "That name" meant plainly the electrical sign that blazes nightly on the theater where Mrs. Thaw is dancing.

Figuratively as well as literally Thaw left behind him only a cloud of Dutchess county dust. Rumors of his passage, descriptions of black automobiles and tales of yacht boardings in Long Island sound speckled the day's news.

Warrants Out for Six.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Aug. 19.—At a special term of the supreme court here Justice Joseph Morschauser issued a warrant for the arrest of Harry K. Thaw, charging him with conspiracy with Howard H. Barnum, the guard who opened the hospital gate when Thaw made his dash for liberty, and five other men in making his escape from Matteawan.

Similar warrants were issued for Richard J. Butler, Roger Thompson, Michael O'Keefe, Eugene Duffy and Thomas Flood, Thaw's alleged accomplices. Barnum has been held without bail for examination Thursday.

Justice Morschauser issued the warrants after taking the evidence of several witnesses.

NEW WAR BELIEVED NEAR

Turkish Army Said to Be Marching on Bulgaria.

London, Aug. 19.—The situation between Bulgaria and Turkey is becoming critical. Prince Said Halim, Turkish grand vizier, admits the Turks have occupied Demotica and other strategic points on the right bank of the Maritza river. Despite official denials, it appears the Turks are projecting, if they have not already begun, an advance against Bulgaria. A note Bulgaria presented to the foreign legations at Sofia Sunday said the Turks were marching toward Kirjali and Gumuljina.

The porte clearly has not the slightest intention of abandoning Adrianople, where Enver Bey has an army of 250,000, which soon will be increased to 400,000.

MANY PERISH AT SEA

Twenty-Five or More Persons
Lost in Alaska Wreck.

Passengers Drowned While Imprisoned in Staterooms—Steamer State of California Sinks.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 19.—Thirty-two passengers and seven seamen were lost when the steamer State of California of the Pacific Coast Steamship company's fleet, struck an uncharted rock and was wrecked in Gambier bay, Alaska, on Sunday.

The steamer sunk within three minutes after striking and many passengers were drowned before they could get out of their staterooms.

Dispatches from Juneau say that it is impossible to give the correct list of the missing, as the purser saved no records.

News of the wreck and the heavy loss of life did not reach Juneau until the steamship Jefferson arrived with some of the passengers and crew who had been rescued from the icy waters.

Members of the crew found on the raft could hardly be called survivors because they were more dead than alive. All but one died before arriving at Juneau.

The Jefferson steamed with all speed to Gambier bay. As it neared the scene of the wrecked vessel, a score of survivors who had taken to the life rafts were rescued.

Many bodies buoyed up by life preservers were also found floating in the sea.

The only names of passengers lost besides Mrs. Ward and her daughter, that have so far been secured, are as follows:

Miss Ridsen and John Vanderlass and wife.

Leslie Hobro, Miss May Dixon, Mrs. C. E. Spithill and child, Lillian B. Norman, Nick Pitulas, Ben A. Wade, Miss Anna L. Cassidy, W. A. Dyer, Minnette B. Harlan, Blanche Fridd, Miss Alice Johnson, Miss Beardon, J. Holmes, Miss Wilson.

E. J. Ferguson and family have motored to Pontiac for a week's visit with relatives.

GOOD COUNTRY ROADS IN ILLINOIS

STANDARD BITUMINOUS STATE HIGHWAY OF MASSACHUSETTS.

View showing the road which connects Boston with Springfield. This highway costs $22,000 per mile and the cost of maintenance on it is less than on the ordinary dirt road of Illinois. To begin with it has a well drained foundation on which is placed various sizes of crushed stone and gravel. Through the interstices is poured natural liquid bitumen which holds the particles of the road in place. The surface does not exude oil or pitch under the heat of the sun, nor become hard and brittle in cold weather.

NOT since the Civil War has a public question become so prominent in so short a time, and never have the people of Illinois been so unanimously of one opinion on any public question as they are now in support of good roads and modern city pavements.

It is difficult to find a region so remote and so antiquated as not to possess one or more citizens who are spending time and energy to improve highways and pavements in their community, and to educate their fellow citizens to a realization of the benefits to be derived from a better system of public highways and city pavements.

This agitation began in the early stages of the bicycle craze and quickened into a perfect epidemic with the advent of the motor car. Like every other live city Peoria has its good roads boosters and now that the Tice good roads bill has been passed it remains for these boosters to stimulate the city and county officials to the importance of road and street improvements.

With the building of state roads there will be more good pavements in all the cities throughout Illinois. This has been the experience of every other state which has gone into the road building business to any extent. Nothing impresses a visitor or tourist so much as a well built, smooth, dustless road or pavement. Many townships and even cities in the east have paid the state to build a pavement through the city limits. This makes a uniform construction of the road. It has also saved money to the municipalities and resulted in skilled work, for the state road men of the east are experts in making the proper proportions of stone, gravel and natural lake asphalt to make a road which will stand up under the constant pounding and puning of traffic caused principally and other by the motor car and motor truck. 35 per cent. That would leave only 15 per cent to be spent in the strictly rural districts—exactly where money is needed the most.

Illinois ranks first in agriculture among the states, third in the wealth of its inhabitants and 24th in the percentage of its roads which are improved. The prime cause of bad roads in the state and county is the crazy quilt patchwork system under which they are supposed to be built and kept in order. For road purposes the state is divided into 1,500 road districts, in each of which there are three highway commissioners.

Each commissioner has a nice little road district where he can patch, and tinker, and build, and repair just as he pleases, with no thought of what is going on in the surrounding districts. He may build three or four pieces of bituminous road to join stretches of deep black mud at either end of his territory.

He has, on the average, about $1,200 a year to spend, a good portion of which goes to pay for his own more or less unskilled services.

The result is a vast collection of mud holes, strung like jewels on a broken and disjointed chain of short pieces of good roads.

The main country roads in this county, as elsewhere, run chiefly on the division lines between the various townships. The highway commissioners whose districts touch these boundary lines are rarely allowed to spend much money in their improvement. The constituents of each commissioner insist that he spend their tax money where they will get all the benefit of it—that is, entirely their district. The result is that the main roads often get less attention than those which are less traveled.

If these main highways are to be kept in permanent and good condition it seems necessary that they be constructed and maintained through out their length by a single and central authority which shall have a jurisdiction over the whole road.

The Tice bill, which has been signed by the governor, covers this point and most of the other ancient and out worn pictures which make the present road system of Illinois a joke. It provides for a system of main highways, the construction of which is aided by the state. Such roads are to be built under the direction of a state highway department and maintained by the state. In a similar way minor but still important highways may be given the aid of the county.

Petty highway commissioners who to the number of 5,000 swarm like ants over the black mud roads of the state, are abolished. Instead of three there is to be only one commissioner to each township. All highways in the state are to be constructed according to a uniform system, whereas now the varying fancies of the immortal 5,000 are responsible for roads of nearly 5,000 different depths, depths, widths and forms of construction. The eastern specifications, which call for a bituminous road with a binder of either Bermudez or Trinidad natural lake asphalt are now in the hands of the engineers and commissioners throughout the state, and inasmuch as the eastern state roads have stood up under heavy traffic, it is quite certain that these specifications will be adopted by the state authorities with modification.

Illinois is now going through the same experimental state that New York did when good roads and modern city pavements were first agitated. Millions of dollars were wasted in the upkeep and maintenance of roads which has outlived their usefulness and it was not until a standard specification was adopted by the state engineers calling for the construction of a pavement which would meet the heavy traffic requirements that this waste was stopped. If the brick pavements in Illinois were as heavily traveled as the eastern streets there would be nothing left of them in a short time. While the base of any road of pavement is an important matter, it is not nearly as important as the surface. Once the surface of a road starts to ravel it means ultimate destruction. All of the eastern streets are held together with natural bitumen. It was the realization that poor roads were an economic burden, and that ordinary macadam—must less dirt roads—could not meet traffic requirements that showed the necessity for a cement or "binder" that would hold the stone of the macadam in place. The best macadam without a binder quickly ravel out, especially no roads traversed by heavy loads and high speed automobiles. That roads and pavements should be smooth and dustless is also demanded. Starting with the need of something that would hold together the stone surfaces do no more than change

SULZER'S CLAIM HIT

ATTORNEY GENERAL REFUSES TO UPHOLD HIM.

Carmody Declares That Glynn Is Legal Acting Governor of New York State.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 19.—The final blow, in the opinion of those who are fighting for the complete ouster of Gov. William Sulzer from office during the hearing of impeachment proceedings against him, was delivered when Attorney General Carmody handed down a decision that Lieut. Gov. Martin Glynn is acting governor of New York.

This is the decision upon which both sides in the controversy have been pitting so much faith and the ruling apparently opens the way for Glynn to assume the reins of control without much further fight.

The decision followed close upon the failure of the trustees of state public buildings to meet with Governor Sulzer. It had been intended for the board to meet and decide upon giving rooms to Lieutenant Governor Glynn for his office as acting executive, but when it was found that Governor Sulzer would attend the meeting and attempt to act as chairman, those members who are in opposition to him ignored the governor and did not appear.

The support of Sulzer's contention that he is still in the executive chair has been half-hearted, but the decision of the attorney general undoubtedly will drive the governor's few friends from his side and add to Glynn's faction. Adjutant General Hamilton already has recognized Glynn.

New York, Aug. 19.—There was not a seat to be had in Hammerstein's Victoria for the afternoon matinee and night performance, at which Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw is appearing.

Mrs. Thaw appeared to be very nervous and danced only three of the four dances in her repertoire with Jack Clifford, her dancing partner. At the end of the fifth curtain call she stepped to the footlights and, after an embarrassed pause, faltered: "I thank you very much."

American Traveling in France Hurt by Train.

Paris, Aug. 19.—Theodore P. Shonts of New York, president of the Interborough Rapid Transit company, had a narrow escape from death when he fell beneath a moving railway train at Le Breuil. A bystander pulled Mr.
Shonts from beneath the wheels just in time to save him from being run over. As it was Mr. Shonts' hands and legs were badly cut.

When the accident occurred the train was stopped and Mrs. A. P.
Moore (Lillian Russell), who was a passenger and had a first-aid outfit with her, alighted and bandaged Mr.
Shonts' hurts.

two others. He escaped.

when Mrs. Dunbar asked him to go.
Instead he drew two pistols and ordered her to stand against the wall.
Four men in an adjoining room were called out and lined up with her.
